Breathing life into office spaces

The corporate space is often forgotten when it comes to creating a space that inspires. So when Transnet briefed us to liven up their office space and surrounding areas, we were very eager to refresh the space through the use of striking wallpapers. We wanted to bring in artwork that brought energy to the various different rooms and evoked emotion in those who were using them. The contrasts between dark and bright, as well as still and mobile allow each piece to bring out a different emotion. The striking images not only changed the mood of each room, but also brought in texture and warmth. The implemented ideas revived the space, succeeding in bringing life and energy, and also serves as a catalyst for thought-provoking conversations.
